R. J. CORMAN RAILROAD GROUP, LLC ANNOUNCES ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGES

NICHOLASVILLE, Ky. – R. J. Corman Railroad Group, LLC announces the appointments of Nathan Henderson to serve as President of R. J. Corman Railroad Services, LLC and of Noel Rush to serve as Senior Vice President Commercial Development. Their respective backgrounds in the railroad industry and corporate finance and operations make them highly qualified to serve in these roles. Each of these transitions are effective immediately. Henderson and Rush will continue to report to R. J. Corman President and CEO, Ed Quinn.

Nathan Henderson joined the R. J. Corman family of companies in January 2011 after an impressive 14 year career with CSX Transportation. He has served in several leadership roles throughout his nearly six years of service including Vice President of Material Sales, Vice President of Strategic Sales and Marketing, and most recently as Chief Commercial Officer. Each of these positions has provided Nathan with an extensive background in topics such as safety performance, customer-focused delivery, service quality, and regulatory compliance. Mr. Henderson has a Bachelor of Business Administration from Morehead State University, serves on the Associates Advisory Board for the Association of American Railroads (AAR) and was recently reelected to the board of the National Railroad Construction and Maintenance Association (NRC). In his new role he will be tasked with overseeing the daily operations and development of the Railroad Services company, which offers railroad construction, emergency response and maintenance of way services.

“I am looking forward to this new opportunity,” Henderson said. “In fulfilling this new position I am committed to providing our customers the top of the line services that they have come to expect from R. J. Corman. Additionally, I will emphasize the company’s overall operating efficiency and work toward ongoing expansion, while keeping safety as our priority.”

Noel Rush’s 20 year tenure with R. J. Corman has provided him the opportunity to hold leadership roles in several facets of the company such as, President of R. J. Corman Derailment Services, Vice President of Finance and Administration, and Vice President Risk Management. Within these roles he was responsible for overseeing the company’s finance department, its fleet and potential acquisitions, building operating and capital budgets and coordinating with corporate counsel. In addition to his regular responsibilities, Mr. Rush helped to establish and led the highly renowned R. J. Corman Storm Team for nearly fifteen years. Rush holds a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from The University of the South. Upon his movement into this role, he will assume responsibility for further developing the company’s corporate marketing strategies, client services, executive relationships and government affairs.

“I am prepared and eager to bring thoughtful and energetic leadership to the company’s commercial development,” Rush stated. “While I am serving in this role, we will continue to work to deliver a suite of increasingly proficient services which our clients value and regard as the best and safest in the industry. We will also strive to uphold R. J. Corman’s long history of successful strategic partnerships with our customers, state and local government agencies, and the communities in which we operate.”

“As a company, we look forward to seeing the accomplishments that each of these men will have in their new positions,” R. J. Corman Railroad Group President and CEO, Ed Quinn, said. “I am certain that they each possess the appropriate skills and will provide invaluable headship while serving in these roles. Following these successful transitions, we plan to announce the restructuring of leadership personnel within the emergency response department of R. J. Corman Railroad Services.”

Altogether, R. J. Corman Railroad Group employs more than 1,600 people in 24 states. R. J. Corman companies provide a myriad of services to the railroad industry such as: short line railroad operations, industrial railcar switching, emergency response, track material distribution, track construction, signal design and construction, railroad worker training, and building eco-friendly locomotives.
